Going to Cincinnati on the 23d of June will be "A Fool's Errand" to the Democratic party.

It doesn't take long for a Democratic Congressman to lay himself on the shelf.
He seems to go there by instinct.

A man who can find a way of escape for the Democratic party from the clutches of Mr. Tilden, will be in a position to make money at Cincinnati.

The Madison Democrat asks the question, "Is Grant Weakening?" Judging from the way the name of Grant troubles the Democracy, we should answer the question in the negative.

Senator Hill seems to be afraid to call up the Kellogg case. If he and the other Democrats would follow their inclinations, they would furnish the Republican party with a good campaign document, by un-seating Senator Kellogg. But they hesitate to do the party that much service.

Governor Smith is to be heartily congratulated for his wisdom in appointing so good a committee to investigate the affairs of the State hospital for the insane. A better committee could not have been selected. They are intelligent, upright men, and cannot be induced to make only half a search for mismanagement, neither can they be persuaded to make any white-washing report.

The reports concerning the condition of winter wheat are very much mixed. In some counties in the State the best prospects well, especially that which was sown on new ground and put in early. The other has been badly damaged and can not be revivied by the recent rains. In Rock county, the winter wheat will evidently not be an average crop. Some fields are quite promising, but many others are hopelessly ruined by the thawing and freezing during the winter.

During the past winter a very important law was enacted in reference to the collection of statistics of pauperism and crime in this State, which the town clerks in the county should execute in the strictest manner possible. The first section of the law provides that it is the duty of the county clerks of the several counties of this State to make reports relating to pauperism and crime in their counties to the State Board of Charities and Reform, or any duly constituted authority performing its duties, in such form as the Board may prescribe upon blanks to be provided by the Board.
It is then made the duty of the town clerks in the State to make reports of pauperism and crime to the county clerks, and the boards of supervisors of the several towns should fix the compensation of the town clerks for obtaining the statistics required by law. This is very important law, and the statistics and information collected under it will prove of great value to the people of the State.

One of the shrewdest political observers in this State—a man who keeps an eye on the movement of every politician and every party—thinks that General Grant will not be nominated at Chicago, and that Blaine will come in out of the debris of Grant's strength with additional backing and will get the nomination. He also thinks Washburne would clear the gate to the White House with a single bound, but that it is hardly probable that he will be nominated, as the Eastern machinists will not touch him. The Gazette has expressed the opinion several times, and at present is not warranted by circumstances to change that opinion, that Washburne would make the strongest candidate yet named. We believe the man named by the Chicago Convention will be elected, but the candidates have different degrees of strength, and all in all we are firmly of the opinion that the ability, character, and name of Washburne, will give the Republican party that strength which will place it beyond the possibility of defeat.

this country—because of its perfect management and the enormous business transacted therein—is the New York city postoffice. A late number of the New York Evening Mail gives some interesting statistics relative to the business done during 1879, as compared with previous years. In the money order department the transactions amounted to more than 44 millions of dollars in 1879, and all this without the loss of a single dollar to the government. The number of postage stamps sold in 1879, numbered a little over 91 millions. It is a curious fact that the New York postoffice in 1879, sold more than ten per cent. of all the postage stamps issued by the postoffice department. One of the striking features of the postoffice is the profits it yields to the government. In 1879 the receipts of the office were $3,239,240.00, and the expenses, including the free delivery service, were $1,205,819, making a net profit to the United States of more than two millions of dollars! The number of letters delivered during the past year reached 173 millions. In the postoffice there are 692 clerks beside 447 carriers, and during the year each of these carriers delivered and collected 505,963 letters. Mr.
Levi Blakelee, auditor of the postoffice, through whose able management and strict business methods, the expenses of the office are largely reduced, is an uncle of Mr. William Alcott, of Spring Valley, in this country.

Recently, the Waukesha Democrat printed a long letter from ex-Superintendent Henrickson, of the Industrial School, giving an account of his connection with that institution. He has had numerous troubles during his long connection with the school, and his enemies have attempted to bring dishonor upon his name by connecting questionable transactions with his management of the school. It is known that experts were employed to investigate the affairs of the institution, and especially to examine the books, and learn whether or not there had been any defalcations, or any money disbursed that could not be accounted for. The work was finished, and no further comment is needed than the following which was adopted unanimously by the board of trustees of the Industrial School:

WHEREAS, The committee appointed to examine the accounts of A. D. Hendrickson, having employed an expert, and said expert having examined said accounts and reported thereon;
and

WHEREAS, It is shown that there are some small errors only, we may say, astonishingly small, considering the sums received and disbursed, and but a small amount involved therein, which he has this day liquidated; therefore

Resolved, That we believe Mr. Hendrickson in his dealings with the institution was actuated by the best motives, and any imputations or charges affecting his integrity, were entirely unfounded in fact.

Mr. Hendrickson has at last gained a happy issue out of all his troubles and his friends throughout the State will heartily congratulate him. It is difficult work for any man occupying the position he did for many years, to be altogether free from suspicion, no matter how upright and strict he may have been in managing the school. There are designing men—men of questionable ambition and selfish motives, men who want to tear down and never build up, and who follow him every step.

From such men began the talk against Putnam, and they will begin it against anycbody.

Advices from Washington say that in the press reports regarding Congressman Williams' argument before the House Committee on Commerce on the reservoir system, some ludicrous mistakes were made.
These reports were published in the Gazette at the time, but for the purpose of giving the outline of his argument correctly, we reproduce the principal points made:

Mr. Williams stated before the Committee that the reports of General Wilson's survey of the Rock River, in 1867; of the Upper Mississippi River and its tributaries, the St. Croix, Chippewa, and Wisconsin, and the estimates of Captain Rager, of Janesville, presented the following points of comparison:

At page 96, of Captain Allen's report, the storage capacity of the fourteen proposed reservoirs on the St. Croix River is given as thirty-four billion cubic feet; at page 21, of General Wilson's report, the storage capacity of Lake Horicon is given at twelve billion cubic feet, or 31 per cent. of the eight proposed reservoirs. By Captain Allen's report the storage capacity of the twelve reservoirs on the Chippewa River is given as thirty-one billion cubic feet. Storage capacity of Lake Horicon to those twelve reservoirs, 39 per cent. By the same report the storage capacity of the eight proposed reservoirs on the Wisconsin River is given at nineteen billion cubic feet. The storage capacity of Lake Horicon to these eight reservoirs is 63 per cent. The watershed of the eight Wisconsin reservoirs was 1,410 square miles.
The watershed of Lake Horicon was 436 square miles. The storage capacity of Lake Horicon alone was equal to 35 per cent. of the fourteen St. Croix reservoirs, 39 per cent. of the twelve Chippewa reservoirs. Captain Allen's estimated cost of the dams and dikes on the Wisconsin River was $170,000; on Chippewa River was $318,837, on the St. Croix River was $385,720. Colonel Walker stated before the committee in response to a question by Mr. Williams, that he would take the contract for building the Horicon dam gates, etc, for only $25,000.

GENERAL GRANT.

The Visit to Houston—Enthusiasm on the Way—The General's Mexican Policy.

Houston, Texas, March 29.—General Grant and party left San Antonio this morning, accompanied by General Ord's family and railway officials, and took dinner at New Philadelphia; the Houston Committee waited on them and took charge, escorting them hither, where 10,000 people, whites and blacks, received them with a national salute by artillery. Commands of military and police could hardly keep the passage-way clear. They marched, with two bands, four military companies, several colored societies with banners, Knights of Pythias, on horses, and a mass of moving humanity riding and afoot, through the city, beneath flags and between houses streaming with mottoes of welcome and other devices, all displaying a kind of greeting. At the hotel receptions were accorded, and handshaking followed, after which the Opera house was visited. They leave in the morning for Clinton, where they take the steamer for New Orleans.
The visit to Mobile is still uncertain. On the train General Grant, in conversation with Colonel Andrews, of San Antonio, jokingly remarked, when the Chicago Convention was alluded to, that he was satisfied that the canvass before the Convention would reveal who the nominee is to be. When asked "What are Washburne's chances?" he said
"Washburne might be found prominent if no nomination is made on the first or second ballot; that he was a good man, and that either he or Edmunds would be acceptable. Colonel Andrews, who reported the above, being interrogated by a reporter, said the General evinced no uneasiness regarding his own chances, though he would not commit himself. Regarding Mexico the General conversed freely with the reporter, saying there are demagogues in that country who endeavor to create popular sympathy by the denunciation of Americans, who they charge desire to annex their country, and, though the masses feel satisfied this is not the case, it has believers. The General added that he hoped the press would urge kind feelings toward Mexico; that our country should assure them that we do not contemplate annexation or acquisition; that all we want is for them to form a strong, just government which will protect life and property and warrant the development of their fine country. They should have a treaty of reciprocity with our Government, that the assurances of mutual confidence; that, for example, if a German citizen, who has his own control, to an acquisition, that we may enjoy their $150,000,000 trade, of which we get only a small proportion.

A SENATE SCENE.

Blaine and Thurman—Sudden Illness of the Ohio Senator.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A strange scene transpired in the Senate this afternoon, dramatic and unexpected. Senator Thurman had taken the floor immediately after the close of the morning hour, to make a formal movement in favor of having a speedy settlement of the Geneva award bill now pending. He had not spoken more than a minute or two, when Blaine came into his place on the floor, dropping into that peculiar crouching attitude, which he always assumes when about to speak, intently followed the words of Thurman. The Senators observed this, and drew about in their chairs and faced the two men. The moment Thurman took his seat Blaine opened on him with one of his impetuous, taunting criticisms, which serve at one time to confuse and irritate his opponent. Thurman retorted with much vehemence and some feeling. Then Blaine replied with increasing vigor, making some "ad captandum" applications of Thur-man's views, which caused the old gentleman to evidently swell with wrath. At the close of one of Blaine's most pointed periods Thurman sprang to his feet, when, suddenly, he had uttered a word in reply, he clapped his hand to his forehead and rubbed it, as if in pain, then dipping his finger into a glass of water on the desk before him, he moistened his temples in slow, deliberate touches, and then sank back into the chair from which

HE CLAIMS IT.

The Claims of the Patent Medicine Man in St. Louis.

St. Louis, March 29.—Dr. T. H. McLean, of this city, proposes to have the $400,000, recently appropriated for the improvement of fortifications and the national defense generally, and left for the East last week to make his claim to the money clear.

The Doctor bases his claim to the appropriation upon the ground that, if the money does not go to him, its use will be followed, since his late inventions of destructive engines make the old style of war and systems of defense of no value at all. The facts in the case are at least interesting, and Dr. McLean is either a second Edison in his way, or a rich man who is throwing away his money through a clear channel. He is a patent medicine man, who has made a fortune, owning some of the first business property in St.
Louis, to which he is constantly adding;
and for the past two years has devoted himself to the invention of new engines of war. This he has been engaged in secretly, but has spent, it is said, nearly $100,000 in a manufacture at New Haven in the construction of his guns. His inventions cover nearly the whole field of warfare; he has war-shells of a new pattern, time-shells, which explode upon a new system, incendiary shells for the destruction of besieged cities, torpedoes that are shot at ships from great guns and tear the vessel under water, and machine-guns, some of which will fire 1,000 rounds a minute.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Senator Cameron, of Wisconsin, to-day presented the memorial of the Legislature of that State asking an appropriation for the construction of the reservoir system of improving the Upper Mississippi River. Senator Cameron also presented a memorial asking Congress to authorize the Secretary of War to furnish tents for the army reunion to be held at Milwaukee this fall. Senator Cameron called to-day at the Quartermaster General's office to inquire how many tents could be furnished, but learned that it would be impossible to furnish many, as the supply of the army has been very much reduced by calls from the front and the supplies sent to yellow fever districts last summer.

NEW MEXICO.

Notes from the Pen of One of Janes-ville's Residents, Concerning Colorado and New Mexico.

"In camp on the Rio Puerco, a branch of the Rio Grande del Norte, twenty-five miles west of Albuquerque, and one hundred miles southwest of Santa Fe, the capital of the territory."

Left Janesville in company with J. H.
Snow, March 24 for Albuquerque, New Mexico, to respond to a telegram received from A. Robinson, of Pueblo, Colorado, chief engineer of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe R. R., to take part in a surveying party, of which Lewis Kingman is chief engineer, and one of Robinson's ablest engineers. From Chicago we hurried on to Kansas City, and from thence to Topeka, Kansas.

As we leave Topeka—the capital, we begin to realize that we are approaching the wide rolling prairies of which so much has been said. Here we saw now and then a plow at work in the field, which would be considered quite early in the season for this section of Wisconsin. As we cross the line into Colorado we see at the right of us the old Fort Las Animas, made conspicuous by the stars and stripes.

At La Junta Junction, I shook hands with Mr. Snow, as his destination was Pueblo and I went south. At La Junta I met Mr. Kingman who was on his way to Albuquerque, where he informed me that the party were in camp. As we leave La Junta we could see from the cars Pikes Peak, Spanish Peak, and Green Horn Mountains. As we reach Trinidad we approach the Raton Mountains, Trinidad is a beautiful Mexican town situated at the base of a lofty mountain.

As we leave Trinidad we begin to wind around among the mountains with their lofty summits extending far above us on both sides, which makes the scenery indescribably beautiful. We do not wonder at the grunting and puffing of the locomotive when we are informed that the maximum grade is three and nine-tenths feet, in one hundred feet. It is simply grand as we stand on the rear car and see the train climbing these wonderful hills and winding around these sharp curves. At sunset we reach the grand tunnel which is about a half a mile in length, and as we pass through this tunnel it would seem we are in the darkness of night. The boundary line between Colorado and New Mexico is in this tunnel about one hundred feet from the north end.

This tunnel shows at once a masterpiece of engineering. We reach Santa Fe, the capital of New Mexico, Saturday morning, and we find it to be a city of considerable business, and quite a novelty to one who has always lived in the east. Santa Fe is 6,983 feet high we realize that we are a little above our neighbors in the Mississippi Valley, but that much below them as regards hotel accommodations. The streets of the city are very narrow. The buildings are for the most part, but one-story in height. They are made of adobe brick laid up in mud mortar, rather light in color. The walls are laid then for a roof underneath the logs are laid across, then a layer of boards is laid on the logs, then a pile of dirt about a foot deep is piled on this, then it is plastered with mud, which in time becomes hard, and easily turns water. They are finished off very nicely inside, and are, I think, very much ahead of a house made of logs.
They are cool in summer, and warm in winter; and they are the only houses seen in this country. At 1:30 p. m. Mr. Kingman and myself took the coach for Albuquerque for a ride of seventy-five miles, and six men on two seats with all our wraps on for a ride of this distance, was anything but pleasant.

Monday morning, March 28th, we commenced our survey about a mile south of Albuquerque, and ran the line across the river, there we had a sandy desert of twenty miles in width to cross, where nothing but the cactus and sage bush can grow. This line or survey is called the "Atlantic and Pacific," and is to run on the thirty-fifth parallel from Albuquerque N. M., through Arizona and California, to San Francisco.

THE MINES.

Another Great Achievement of the Wizard of Menlo Park.

New York, March 29.—The Herald has a glowing and characteristic account of the success Edison is achieving with his process of separating gold from the "tailings" of mines by electricity. It declares he has invented methods by which he can extract a greater amount of gold from rejected residuum of auriferous quartz or sand than is obtained by the present process from the virgin rocks delivered fresh from the powerful trituration crushing mills.

SELF-SLAUGHTER.

WATFAC, March 29.—An inquest over the dead body of Mrs. Betsey Larson, of Scandinavia, has just been held. She was found Saturday night hanging by her neck on the porch of her husband's house, having been dead apparently two hours. For several days she had acted quite strangely, and had read her Bible most of the time.
She told some of her neighbors that she was going to die before Easter, so that she could rise with the Savior on that day. The jury returned a verdict of premeditated suicide. Deceased was a highly lady, 43 years old.

OBITUARY.

GREEN BAY, March 29.—Frederick Bur-kard, editor and publisher of the German newspaper, the Concordia, died this morning of lung fever. Deceased was born in Bavaria, and was aged 44 years. Has published papers in the German language at various times the past twenty years.
He started the present one six years ago.
He leaves a wife and five children.

HEALTH AND DRESS.

Dr. Richardson's Views on the Form, Material and Color of Clothes.

From the London Telegraph March 2.

Dr. Richardson delivered a lecture yesterday at the London Institution on "Health and Dress." The object of the lecture was to show what reforms were most required in order that dress might minister to health. What was wanted in the reform of dress was good fashion for both sexes and for everyday life in social intercourse.
Faintly as the male attire may be in artistic points of view, it was, in relation to health, perfection as compared with the dress worn by women. It keeps all parts of the body equally warm; it was carried by the shoulders; it allowed free movement of the limbs, and it provided for ready change to meet the vicissitudes of season. The reform he suggested in the dress of women was that it should in all practical details have the same advantages, and should be, in fact, the same, with the exception of the exterior robe or gown.
The long dress for women, which even trespassed slightly on the ground, was the most becoming for them. This should play the same part as the outer coat of the man, the rest of the dress being the same, except that it might be made of rather lighter materials. The great Surgeon Cline, when once consulted by an anxious mother what she should do to preserve her girl from becoming deformed, answered, let her have no stays, and let her run about like the boys." He would endorse

THIS WISE RULE, AND WOULD ADD, "Let the

mothers of England clothe the girls precisely as they would clothe the boys, permitting knickerbockers if they like, and let them do the one distinguishing mark of a light, loose flowing gown, and the girls will grow into women as vigorous, as healthy and as well formed in body as their companions of the sterner sex. In the next part of the lecture the quality of clothing was considered, and the amount at various seasons. The necessity of special care in adapting clothing to season was illustrated from the physiological rule first discovered by the late Mr. Milner, that the body, independently of any will of its own, underwent two pounds of waste and of increase of weight, the waste commencing toward the close of September and the increase in the first weeks of April. Warm clothing ought to begin in September or early in October, and ought not to be left off until the close of April. For underclothing next the skin he strongly recommended silk, and with that light fleecy material, this heavy flannel, and every material that absorbed and held the watery excretions from the skin, were at all times bad. Heavy clothes were bad, and had really no necessary connection with warmth. For outer garments in cold weather, those that were light and fleecy were best, and furs were excellent. He criticized severely the permanent waterproof which shuts up the rain that distils from the body at the same time that it keeps out the rain which falls from the clouds—a distinction with a difference not in favor of the wearer of the permanent waterproof.
Then he dwelt on the color of dress, contending that the Lancet was quite right in stating that white color was the best even in cold weather, while it was admittedly the best in the summer season. The objection to white was, of course, the readiness with which it showed the dirt—an objection which was strictly an advantage in a health point of view, but which would be met practically by modifying the color to gray. For all ordinary occasions light gray ought to take the place of black for outer coverings of the body.
Black was, in fact, of all colors the very worst, and those poor ladies who thought it necessary after bereavement to immerse themselves for months in crape were indeed to be pitied. After the sunset, it was almost the saddest of miseries inflicted by society on the already miserable.

when I took my first 40 drops of "Constitution Water," recommended by a friend, it having cured him of kidney trouble, I have suffered a great gain across the small of my back, so acute that it would awaken me out of a sound sleep, but, thanks to your medicine, I am now entirely well, and have not taken six doses in all. Your remedy is well worth $10 per bottle, but the price, $1, puts it within the reach of us all.

Yours truly,

A NOTABLE WAGER.

Major Ben. Perley Poore's Bet and How It Was Paid.

Indianapolis Journal's Washington Letter.

Among the notables who gather here every winter, is the journalist, Major Ben.
Perley Poore. He is a correspondent of several New England papers, and a regular contributor of the Atlantic Monthly. His life has been an eventful one, and his warm friendship for Charles Sumner and other public men has closely connected him with public events. Major Poore is a great diner-out, and a frequent guest of General Burnside. His form and florid complexion tells that he is a high liver. He is short of stature, and weighs 270 pounds. In conversation the other day, his wife related an old story of her husband, which is, perhaps, familiar to many of the old readers of the Journal. During Pierce's cavass for the presidency, Major Poore, then a young man, wagered with a friend living in Boston that Pierce would not be elected. He agreed to wheel a barrel of apples from his home, Indian Hill, 30 miles distant, through the streets of Boston to his friend's door. The election came off, and the friend held the Major to his wager. Mr. Poore thought it too severe a task, and begged her husband to have the barrel sent in a wagon. The major was too conscientious to do that, and insisted on fulfilling his wager. He went to a neighboring farm and bought the fullest barrel of apples to be had. Witnesses saw that the barrel was well and closely packed. He put on a pair of snuff colored pants tucked into his heavy fur boots, a velvet vest, a jacket and a large red felt hat, and sent him from his home in California. Thus arrayed, he started at daybreak for Boston, wheeling his heavy load on a wheelbarrow. His wife sent a man with a wagon after him, so that in case he gave out there would be some one at hand to help him. After the sun was up the country people began to pass him as he trudged along, perceiving and dust. Each one offered him a lift or tried to persuade him to stop. He kept on 15 miles, tired and sore; then he concluded to put his apples in a farmer's barn and go back home for the night, and start afresh the next morning. He rode home and was glad to rest. He was sore and bruised, but after a good night's rest he felt better, and was able to proceed with his task. By this time the people along the road heard of his coming and they gathered to gather to meet him. Boys followed him and women stood at their doors to see him go by. There was great excitement, and the news soon traveled to Boston. It reached the ears of the authorities. They saw him word not to enter the city in the evening, but to stop outside until morning.
A few miles from Boston he stopped over night. The next morning on the outskirts of the city he was met by a large crowd of people and a brass band. He was escorted by this procession through the principal streets of the city to his friend's home and from there to the Tremont house to a $600 breakfast. He had accomplished his feat and was simply repaid by the reception and breakfast given him by the city authorities. It was many days before he could appear without being stopped and asked "if he was the man who rolled the barrel of apples through the streets of Boston."

THE DOCTORS YIELDING.

Ever since Prof. Green wrote to the Medical Record advising physicians everywhere to use the Safe Kidney and Liver Cure in their practice, it has been gaining in favor with the profession. They can find nothing which is a substitute for it.
R. C. Calkins, M. D., of Rochester, N. Y., says he would now prescribe it to all who are afflicted with serious kidney and liver diseases.

THE FATAL FIFTEEN.

How the Deadly Puzzle Broke up a Cabinet Meeting.

New York Times.

Who introduced the fifteen puzzle into the White House no one knows, but in all probability the guilty person was a Southern Brigadier of more than usual villainy. He must, however, have been in collusion with one of the servants, for on last Friday night the puzzle was found on the table of the room in which Cabinet consultations are held, and it had evidently been placed there only a few moments before the Cabinet assembled. Mr. Key was the first who noticed it. He picked it up, and was examining it carefully, when Mr. Evans asked him what it was. Mr. Key explained the nature of the thing to the Secretary of the State, who turned scornfully away remarking that as a puzzle it was ridiculously simple, which compared with the civil service reform policy of the administration. The President paid no attention to the matter, and opened the meeting by bringing before it the subject of the Panama Canal. Probably the puzzle would have been forgotten, and the fiendish purpose of the wicked Brigadier frustrated, had not Mr. Schurz walked to the piano, remarking that he would "play something."

Now, as is well known, Mrs. Hayes always looks up the piano and takes away the key before each meeting of the Cabinet and with this knowledge the Cabinet, on this particular occasion, felt perfectly safe. What was her horror, however, when Mr. Schurz, piqued by this assertion, left the piano, saying: "Ah, you have a plan for managing the Indians, don't you?" and fell unsuspectingly into the Postmaster's trap.

Then the President, anxious to know what it was that had the power to draw Mr. Schurz from the piano, asked to see the puzzle, and, after looking at it a moment, said that he thought he could do it. "It looks easy," he remarked. "There are fifteen numbers, and you have to arrange them so that there will be eight in one row and seven in another. It certainly seems to me as if I had tried that kind of puzzle somewhere, though I can't at this moment recollect where it was." Mr. Key corrected him, and explained that the great difficulty was to arrange the numbers in order. Mr. Sherman scoffed at the puzzle, and exclaimed that to a man who had to spend his days and nights in shifting Southern Custom House officers as to bring six or Southern States into the Chicago convention prepared to vote for the ablest living financier, the mere shifting of a lot of wooden blocks would be child's play. Mr. Hayes, after watching Mr. Schurz a little longer became so much interested that he sent out and bought another set of blocks, and undertook to solve the puzzle before Mr. Schurz could do it.

At 8 o'clock the next morning Mr. Schurz was taken home in a carriage, completely exhausted, and leaving his blocks in the position, 13 15 14. Mr. Hayes who is a less nervous man, went to his breakfast without exhibiting any signs of uneasiness, and returned to the puzzle immediately after breakfast.

Since that time it is alleged that he has not been seen except by Mr. W. K. Rogers, who reports that the President is closely occupied with public business, and cannot see any visitors. Meanwhile the brigadiers are chucking over the success of their infamous conspiracy, and spend most of the day sitting on the fence of the White House waiting for Mr. Hayes to be removed to an asylum.

It is to be hoped that this story is not true, but at all events it shows the vast possibilities for evil which the fifteen puzzle possesses, and it should arouse us to a perception of the terrible danger with which it now threatens us.

MILTON.

Bee keepers report that their bees have come through the winter in good condition in most cases, although there are many stocks that have given up the ghost from the fact that the greedy individuals did not leave the bees honey enough to carry them through the winter. Many are now feeding their weak swarms with honey or sugar to "spring" them through. D. P. Lane, the "Koshkonong Bee King," who has the largest apiary in the county, informs us that most of his bees have wintered in good condition. Should the bees "spring" all right and the season be favorable the honey crop of Wisconsin will be one of the largest ever produced.

Mr. Judson Wells and family arrived in town last week and are now residents of our village. We take pleasure in welcoming them to a home among us and bespeak for them a neighborly handshake from our villagers.

James McEwan visited Milwaukee friends last week. We hear that it is Mr. McEwan's intention to visit his old home in Scotland this spring.

David Sprague put some rollers under the old water tank which he purchased of the St. Paul Company recently, last Wednesday and by the aid of a few muscular individuals rolled the building across the track in an hour's time.

Thomas and David Earl, of Edgerton, made us a brief call Friday morning. A goodly number of Edgerton Old Fellows and their ladies, who had taken part in the dedication at Janesville, were here that morning enroute for home. The young ladies of the party were all handsome and a credit to the village which they represented.

Postmaster Green has just received a supply of foreign postage stamps to be used in mailing newspapers and periodicals to foreign countries.

Miss Ada B. McCracken, who has the Emerald Grove school in charge for the spring term, has been enjoying a two weeks' vacation here. She begins her labors again on the 5th inst.

Frank H. True, one of the leading merchants of Osage, Iowa, and a former resident of this village, was in town Friday and made us a pleasant call. Frank was enroute home from Chicago, whither he had been to purchase his spring stock of goods.

A number of Old Fellows and their wives from this village attended the dedication of the new Old Fellows hall at Janesville, Tuesday night.

Prof. Hood, Principal of the Omro public schools, has been enjoying a vacation with his family in this village. He is looking pale and hearty.

It is expected that the Seventh Day Baptists will administer the rite of baptism by immersion, at Clear Lake, next Saturday afternoon. There are a number of candidates for the ceremony.

Rev. James Bailey, who has been laboring at Cartwright's Mill, in Chippewa county for some weeks past, as pastor of the Seventh Day Baptist church, recently organized there, came home last week.

The late rains have been of great benefit to winter wheat that had not given up the ghost. Hardly varieties are alive, but white Michigan's said to be completely killed out.

The Seventh Day Baptist social will meet this Thursday evening at the residence of Mrs. N. Reynolds. All are cordially invited.

A meeting of the Cheese Factory Association was called for last Thursday evening, but as Goodrich was the only shareholder present, no business was transacted.

Last Saturday the Wisconsin Fish Commission sent a can of juvenile brook trout here to be put into Otter Creek, and through the kindness of C. L. Clarke, they were taken to the Creek and introduced to their future home. May they live and grow fat to be yanked out in due season by the lovers of a brainy diet.

Rev. E. M. Dunn has purchased the house and lot now occupied by F. A. Howe, and will take possession at an early day.

Smith and Davidson Bro's shipped two carloads of cattle to Chicago, last Thursday.

Frank L. McCracken, agent of the St. Paul Company at Wadsworth, Ill., was in town last Friday and Saturday. He seems to be enjoying good health.

Jas. Home, of Milwaukee, was in town several days last week, enjoying a breathing spell.

W. P. Clarke visited Chicago, last Wednesday and Thursday, and it will pay you to call and see the new goods that are the result of his trip.

Subscribe for the Weekly Gazette, and you will know everything that's worth knowing.

E. B. Rogers and wife took the train for Chicago, Monday morning, to attend the Commencement exercises of the Chicago Medical College, their son, F. D. Rogers, being a member of the graduating class.

BRIEFLETS.

—Springy.
—Only one more day on the March.
—The railroad enterprises are not sleeping.
—Virgil Pope is reported on the sick list, suffering greatly from erysipelas.
—Miss Hattie Calkins, of Milwaukee, is in the city, a guest of Miss Dotti Watson.
—Rev. Mr. Stowers, now of Manitowoc, and formerly one of Janesville's pastors, was in the city to-day.
—Will Palmer is home again for the summer, having spent the winter in the medical college at Chicago.
—George Burpee is no better to-day, and his condition is such as causes his friends to fear that he cannot recover.
—Courtney, the would-be suicide, is said to be in such a wild condition mentally, that steps are being taken to remove him to the Insane Asylum.
—The Republican caucuses are to be held this evening in accordance with the official notices published in the Gazette. Let there be a full attendance of the voters.
—Dr. Burrus lectures at Court Street church to-morrow night, for the Good Templars. A rare list of subjects are on the programme, for phrenological examination after the lecture.
—David Cobb, one of Janesville's oldest citizens, is very low indeed, and there is little hope for his recovery. He is quite advanced in years, and is suffering from a severe attack of erysipelas.
—Several of our citizens who are interested in the Afton railroad, went to Chicago, to-day, by invitation of the Northwestern Railway Company's officials, who desired to consult them concerning certain matters.
—The Temperance Society's dance given last evening called forth one of the largest crowds which ever gathered on such an occasion in Young America hall. It was a big success financially and socially. The Society cleared about $100.
—The Mutual Improvement Club held one of their usually interesting sessions last evening. Mrs. F. C. Cook gave a paper on Goethe, and Miss Godden treated some of his minor poems. The Club is now to give several evenings to the study of "Faust."
—D. D. Bennett has been given a train on the Atchison, Santa Fe and Topeka railroad, and is again a conductor. His many friends here will be glad to learn that his prospects are good. He is a good railroad man, and will win his way sure, if he has half a chance.
—The petition for the Beloit railroad has received the signatures of nearly 600 taxpayers. As one man, Capt. Putnam, has secured every signature, it takes time, but there seems to be very few who are not in favor of the road, nearly every taxpayer signing the petition as soon as presented.
—The Concordia Society held their thirteenth St. Valentine's Fest, or annual ball, last evening. It was largely attended. The Society gave some interesting exercises and intricate movements prior to the commencement of the dance proper. Everybody reports a happy time.

MERRY MASQUERADES.

A Gay Gathering at Cannon's Hall, Last Evening—Some of the Costumes.

The masquerade given by the Janesville Guards, at Cannon's hall, last evening, was one of the most enjoyable social events of the season. There was a crowd, a jam, especially in the gallery and in the hallway. The floor presented a very lively appearance, the costumes being varied and numerous. There were clowns, priests, dandies, Chinamen, dandies, brigadiers, soldiers, old women, young women, and some who were not women. Flora McFlinsey, daughter of night, pretty costumes, little slippers, dainty masques, bright stockings, umbrellas, guns, canes, swords, big noses, cotton padding, gaudy jackets, tri-colored breeches, sheets and wigs, all in one wild merry whirl of gaiety and life. It was immense. Those in the galleries stretched their necks and their mouths, and jammed their elbows into each other's sides in the attempt to get a better view of this social kaleidoscope. In the stairway and entrance to the hall the lookers on were packed in like sardines in a box, and yet all were happy. We noticed one good staid churchman, who said his falling eyes had never before beheld a masquerade. He had got reserved standing room on a chair, and when we left, his feet were still occupying the reservation and his neck had so grown with the anxious stretching that his standing dicker, looked like a Byron turn-down. It pleased him. With all the wild fun and frolic the rules becoming good society were not forgotten, and all found a due amount of enjoyment without any unseemly disorder or rudeness. It was a big success in all respects. Among those en masque were noticed the following:

Mrs. Ore Sutherland, as daughter of the regiment, a very pleasing military costume corresponding to the Guards uniform very closely.
Col. and Mrs. Britton as a good old Irish gentleman and wife.
G. M. Hanchett and F. C. Cook in ladies costume, full evening dress.
Mrs. J. L. Croft, paper costume, very nicely fitting, and made tastefully.
Mrs. H. A. Smith, Swiss girl.
Miss Norcross, as tourist and Mrs. Norcross as Spanish maid.
Mrs. G. M. Hanchett, French peasant.
Mr. B. F. Crockett in court suit and Mrs. B. F. Crockett in fancy dress.
Mrs. Jo Baker, as Martha Washington.
Mrs. Mel Huse, in Asiatic dress.
Mrs. Ed F. Carpenter, as Folly.
Miss Minnie Do'ry, fancy military costume and drum.
Miss Ella Hotelling, as Snow.
J. E. Shea, as a prince, and his sister, Miss Shea, as a princess.
C. S. Jackman, gentleman's light walking suit.
Cole McLean, as an English cockney.
Robert McLean and Charlie Wintermute, in suits of stars and stripes.
Bob Bostwick, as "belle of the evening," alias Flora McFlinsey, alias Fairy.
Miss Lizzie Warren, as Night.
Miss Ida Schlicker, Quakeress dress.
Mr. Clark Webster, as a Russian Count and Mrs. Webster, evening dress.
B. A. Water in Turkish costume.
Frank Hogoboom, in Captain's uniform.
Stanley J. Smith, negro character.
Mrs. O. C. Ford, pink tarlatan, blonde wig.
Will Evenson, as Druid priest.
Miss Fanny Wright, as Night.
Miss Nellie Warren, fancy military costume.
Miss Carrie Jacobs, pleasing white suit.
Mrs. J. P. Williams, full evening dress.
J. W. Bates, as Captain of the Chickasaw.
A. H. Baxter, appeared in the costume of a monk.
George Pritchard and Emmet McGowan as clowns.
Miss Dotti Watson in a Dolly Varden patchwork costume.
Miss Ida Etheridge, in lady's dress of French jester.
Miss Nonnie Searcliff, as school girl.
O. C. Ford and C. E. Cummings, as Chinamen.
George Smith, as the old man.
Walter Airis, as court jester.
Miss Stella Griswold, as a shepherdess.
Mrs. C. S. Jackman, snowy white suit as Winter.
Mr. C. E. Ransom in black domino, and Mrs. Ransom in evening dress.
Charlie Stevens in Major's uniform.
H. McElroy, in domino, and Mrs. McElroy as "Mary, Mary, quite contrary, how does your garden grow?" J. L. Croft, fine costume as Highland chief.
Mrs. C. E. Cummings, excellent as "Topsy." Miss Hattie Calkins, of Milwaukee, as Spanish girl.
Miss Hatch, of Beloit, as a bride.
Miss Anna Randall, Italian costume.
Johnnie Grubb, court dress.
Miss Clara Judd, as Columbia.
Miss Lu Neal, as Evening.
Misses Rich and Church in sailor costumes.
Miss Alice King, as an old lady.
Will King, as a wizard.
Charlie Putnam and Al Neal made up the elephant which appeared with Ed Potter, dressed in jockey costume, as the trainer.

The Chickasaw Guards, under command of Col. Bates, was also an immense feature of fun.
Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Noyes, Miss Clara Church, Miss Chapman, Miss Luella King, and a long list of others appeared in costumes, but the above will give those not there a sufficiently clear idea of the variety presented, and the gay appearance of the floor, which until 11 o'clock was given over exclusively to those masked. Anderson's band furnished excellent music, and all went merrily. The Guards cleared about $50 by the affair, besides giving enjoyment to all present. So successful was it that this will prove but the first of a series of annual masquerades to be given by the same military organization. Much credit is due to those who planned and executed the affair, for they certainly did well, as the result shows.

MR. COBB DECLINES.

To the Editor.
JANESVILLE, Wis., March 30, 1890.
Please inform my friends that I am not a candidate for re-election, and oblige Yours Respectfully,
B. C. Cobb.

BOUND FOR WAUPUN.

Col. Leslie Sentenced to One Year in State's Prison for Getting Fifty Cents—Young Jacobs Sentenced to Six Months for Robbing a Room-mate.

This morning Col. Arthur L. Leslie, the urbane and smooth-tongued talker, who beat Decker, the groceryman, out of fifty cents, had to pay dearly for that half dollar. He appeared before Judge Prichard, this morning, and on pleading guilty to obtaining money under false pretenses, was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary. The Colonel was somewhat surprised, but accepted the situation with his usual gracefulness.

John W. Jacobs, the amateur telegraph operator, who robbed a room mate of $55, also pleaded guilty. His folk live in Illinois, and were unable to afford him any help. The money was recovered. He was sentenced to six months in the penitentiary.

Both prisoners will be taken to Waupun to-morrow by Sheriff Comstock. They will of course swell the numbers of the representatives from Rock county, but they ought not to count, as they are both imported fellows, who ought to be credited to other parts of the country.

THE WEATHER.

REPORTED BY FRANKLIN & EVERTON, DRUGGISTS.

The thermometer at 6 o'clock last evening stood at 51 degrees above; at 1 o'clock a. m., to-day at 33 degrees above; at 7 o'clock a. m., at 31 degrees above, and at 1 o'clock p. m. at 51 degrees above.

One year ago to-day at corresponding hours the thermometer stood at 53, 49, 41, and 59 degrees above.

The indications to-day are, for the upper region, slightly warmer, clear or partly cloudy weather, northerly winds, generally veering to southeasterly, followed by stationary or falling barometer.

THE CONCERT TONIGHT.

Miss Carrington and the Mendelssohn Quintet Club, who are to appear at the Opera house this evening, were greeted last evening in Chicago by a large and enthusiastic audience, and met the highest expectations of all.

The Chicago Tribune this morning says: Miss Carrington, the vocalist, is a soprano of rare ability, possessing a rich, round, full-toned voice, very facile in execution and happy in expression. Her reception was a very cordial one, and her efforts were greeted with enthusiastic accolades. The impression which she made was a very favorable one, and she may always be sure of a warm welcome when she comes here.

The Inter Ocean says: Miss Carrington can surely be thus praised without provoking unnecessary comparisons. This new prima donna is a genuine artist in instinct as well as in vocalization.

It is extremely regretted that the Chicago public cannot have more than one opportunity to hear her. The audience last night was large, and was very demonstrative, being especially enthusiastic over Miss Carrington's singing.

The Times speaks in like praise both of Miss Carrington and the Club. Of the latter it says:

The playing of the club was fully up to its usually high standard. Perfect accompany, delightful tone, and exquisite finish, derivable only from the highest form of skill, marked its work throughout, and the evening's entertainment was a rare treat to the genuine lovers of the highest form of musical composition.
